Sociolinguistics Today and Tomorrow: Postgraduate Perspectives

The University of Hong Kong, 2–3 October 2015

www.stt2015.com

Led by influential, international scholars in the field of sociolinguistics, this workshop will be a unique opportunity for postgraduates and young researchers to receive feedback and engage in a discussion about both the trajectory of sociolinguistics and the future of their research.

Keynote Speakers

Dr. Helen Kelly-Holmes
University of Limerick

Prof. Crispin Thurlow
University of Bern

Topics

• Language and globalisation
• Multimodality
• Language and social relations
• Multilingualism
• Language and institutions
• Media and mediatisation

Abstract Submission

• Abstracts may not exceed 150 words and should include an aim, a brief description of data analysed and the overall outcome or findings.
• Please send the abstracts to anfinson@hku.hk by 31 July 2015.

Additional information and the programme can be found on our website: www.stt2015.com

Organised by

THE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG
SCHOOL OF ENGLISH

Supported by

Faculty of Arts
THE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG